

Since our first conversation at Mission Coffeehouse in the Short North, Drew and I have been practically inseparable. That afternoon we realized common interests; our love for music, good food, and travel. And I discovered one of my favorite coffee spots for the first time, along with my soulmate. 😊

Drew was immediately intriguing. His fresh perspectives, beautiful smile, and charisma had me captivated from the start. Years later I still feel blessed to see him at my side every morning as I wake up and every night when we get home. There's nothing better after a long day than a genuine embrace from my best friend and a good laugh as we retell all the craziness that happened at work.

Drew and I have been fortunate enough to witness the sun set on the San Francisco Bay, experience Broadway in New York and Chicago, paddleboard with manatees, relax on Caribbean cruises, and attend countless music concerts and festivals, including Beyoncé twice in PA (but who's counting ;). Of all our incredible travels together, though, my favorite is the journey we experience daily together, whether we're on an exotic beach somewhere or just at home on the couch. The best part of every day is that we get to spend it together.

We're thrilled we get to continue on this crazy journey as an official married couple. And we're so blessed to celebrate this everlasting bond with cherished family and friends, in this moment and over the many years to come.
